We welcome continued support from Sportway Tyres who will once again be helping us and providing the control tyres for all championship contenders. REIS insurance has agreed to continue their generous support and we would urge you all to give them the opportunity to quote you for your competition car insurance. The Rover Centre at St Albans also continues their support and are always happy to help with questions on car preparation.

Of the events themselves, we can expect the usual high standard of route and organisation. The Southwest Endurance has gained access to additional forest mileage since last year. The Bullnose will be an all new rally under a new organising team lead by champion navigator Simon Lassam; they will be offering new selectif venues some not used for rallying since the RAC rallies of the 1980s. The Bournemouth Rally marks the return of a famous name, now in Endurance form, organised by Graham & Rob Dance, some 90 miles of selectifs are anticipated at a venue new to Endurance Rallying together with a road rally appropriate to Dorset in August. The Exmoor will be back for 2014 having fallen foul of tree disease this year.

I accordance with the regulations, the best five scores out of seven events will count.

We are now open for championship registrations which will be £20.00/person, either by post or you can register at the start of the Great Bustard Rally or the 2013 prizegiving lunch.
